After an opening and reading of the Presidential Proclamation, Nash Koch read “A Soldier Known But to God, the first and second graders sang “Thank you Soldiers”, Fourth grade read poems and sixth graders – Ryan Hancock, Ethan Knight, and Jaden Minarcheck read letters they wrote to their dads who served. Lauren Marshall and Elizabeth West tap danced to “I Wish I was back in the Army”. Patriot Pen Essays were read by Allyson Johnson and Maddie Grillo. Natalie Savage and Macy Bachtel sang “God Bless the U.S.A.”. Acrostic Poems were displayed by Third Grade. Refreshments were provided by Kindergarten and the ushers were Fifth Graders. They observed a moment of silence and TAPS was played by Greg Spencer.

Thank you, Veterans for all you do and have done for our country!

Class News

5th grade eating lunch on field trip

As I reflect on the on the wonderful opportunities of this past week, I feel a sense of gratitude in your choice to send your child to SPJ. Stepping outside the classroom walls allow for the chance to witness my class at their best. I was impressed with the respect, interest, and poise our students displayed during the trips to the State Capital and Archbishop Hoban High School. Two days of bus rides really gave me a chance to share in "the person" your teen is becoming. From the tours (our students knew all the answers), to restaurant behavior (an older couple stopped me to comment of the good behavior of our students), to thanking the bus driver each time they stepped off the bus, let me say, "My class is Awesome!" Thank you for sending your very best to school each day!! Mrs. Montgomery
